Key Content/Modeling

Have you ever had a great idea on how to make something better but did not know how to get your voice heard?

Did you know?

The primary purpose of teacher evaluation is personal and professional growth that leads to improved performance.

Should students evaluate the teacher?

ABSOLUTELY! Teachers should be evaluated by the same students who listen to them day in and day out. This type of evaluation can improve the teaching methods and materials and help the teacher become better at what they do.

Extra Learning Opportunities

There are many opportunities to have your voice heard and maybe even get your ideas implemented. Surveys and referrals are some ways that product sponsors use to find out what people are interested in. As you go off to high school, get involved in the things that matter to you. Let your voice be heard!
